VANIGLIA

"Clay, like the desert, does not have a single color. Its color spectrum changes with the soil and the exact point where it is collected. There is no single 'desert color', but if I had to choose one that represents it, I would say Vanilla: changeable, natural, rich in hidden shades."

Matteo Brioni

PECE

"When you think of Pitch black, you imagine the power of the stormy ocean, the deep darkness of a moonless night, the resilience of stone carved by time. A black that is not just dark, but intense, alive, changeable in the light."
